LETTER OF SUBMITTAL.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE,
Washington, June 1, 1915.

SIR: There is submitted herewith a directory of the sawmills of the United States, compiled at the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, by J. C. Nellis and A. H. Pierson, of the Office of Industrial Investigations. The directory does not purport to be complete, but it does contain the names of all mills that replied continuously to the annual requests for information from 1909 to 1913 and also furnished the special data requested by the Forest Service for this directory.

Respectfully,

E. E. PRATT,

To Hon. WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary of Commerce.

DIRECTORY OF AMERICAN SAWMILLS.

INTRODUCTION.

It is the purpose of this directory to furnish wood-consuming factories and trade with information as to where different kinds of lumber may be purchased, what mills can furnish each kind, and what mills can furnish certain patterns of lumber, structural timbers, and other products. As the title-page indicates, the bulletin is issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, and the Forest Service, of the Department of Agriculture, in cooperation. The Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture compiles each year, in cooperation with the Bureau of the Census or the Bureau of Crop Estimates, figures on the lumber production, and secured recently by correspondence special sawmill reports which are reproduced herein by a system of abbreviations.

This publication does not purport to be a complete sawmill directory of the United States. The decennial census for 1909 showed that there were between 45,000 and 50,000 sawmills in the country at that time. Yearly since 1909 the Forest Service, in cooperation with the Bureau of the Census or the Bureau of Crop Estimates, has sought to obtain from the mills figures on the annual lumber production. The mills which replied continuously to the requests by the Forest Service for data on the lumber cut were asked, in 1914, to supply the information needed for this directory. Those sawmills which furnished such information, some 8,000 in number, are listed here. Mills reporting idle are, of course, not included.

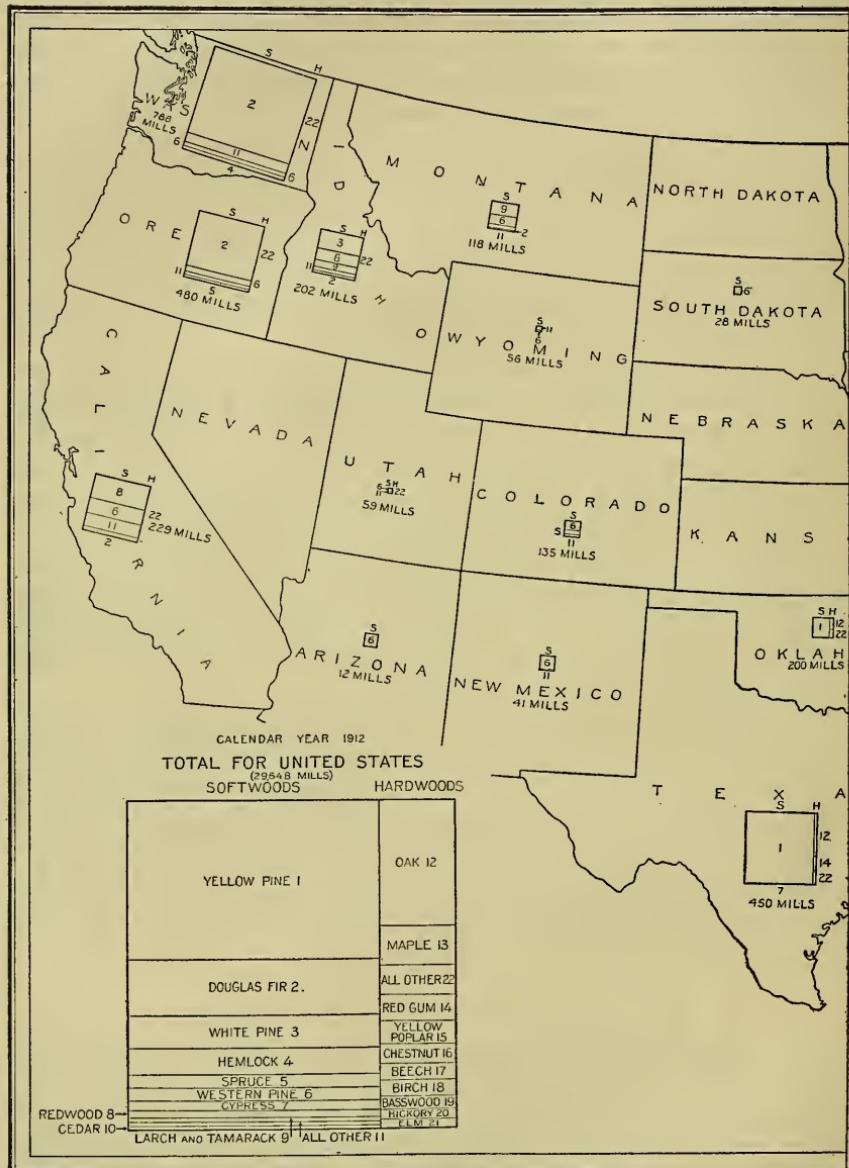

The listings in this directory, covering railroads, kinds of wood cut, and other information, are those reported by the mills themselves. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce or the Forest Service is not responsible if all railroads entering a town are not given, if towns listed are not post offices, if standard names of certain woods have been wrongly reported as local names for other woods, or if any part of a listing is incorrect. Every effort has been made to copy listings as reported, but this is not guaranteed.

HOW TO USE KEYS AND LISTS OF MILLS.

It is realized that most lumber consumers know what regions and States produce the kinds of lumber they use. However, since it is desired to have this directory used by all classes of lumber consumers, it is necessary to indicate what States produce each kind of lumber. Figure 1 shows the production of lumber in 1912 by States and kinds of wood, while Table 1 shows the same data in figures for the principal species. Further, Table 2 summarizes the production of what are called minor species.

PRODUCTION OF THE DIFFERENT KINDS OF LUMBER,

Figure 1 is a diagrammatic map; that is, the production of lumber is indicated graphically by different sized rectangles. Each State contains a large square showing the entire production of lumber in the State. This large square is divided by a vertical line indicating the proportion of softwoods and hardwoods, while each of these latter subdivisions is subdivided by horizontal lines into rectangles which indicate the production of each kind of wood in each State. Each such rectangle contains a number which, by comparison with the legend in the lower left hand corner of the map, shows the kind of wood represented. For instance, the map shows at once that yellow pine, which is No. 1, is cut principally in the following States: Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia; and that Douglas fir, which is No. 2, is cut principally in Washington and Oregon. Table 1, it will be noted, shows on pages 10 and 11 the production of softwoods by kinds and States and on pages 12 and 13 the production of the principal hardwoods by kinds and States. Table 2 shows for each of the so-called minor species listed in this directory the total quantity cut in 1912 and the principal States in which it was cut.

The lumber consumer who is not familiar with the State or States producing the kind of wood he desires should consult the map or one of the tables, looking first for the kind of wood he has in mind and then for the States which produce it. He can then turn to the following pages and ascertain what firms in the State or States selected produce the wood in question and what specialties or largest sizes, etc., they manufacture. Since Figure 1 and Tables 1 and 2 were compiled from sawmill reports for 1912, the list of States which they indicate produce any one kind of wood may differ somewhat from corresponding data in this publication, which was compiled from reports secured from sawmills in the winter of 1914-15.

1. Yellow pine includes yellow and North Carolina pine.
2. White pine includes eastern or northern and western (Idaho) white pine; also Norway and jack pine.
3. Hemlock includes eastern and western hemlock.

4. Spruce includes eastern (red), Sitka, and Engelmann spruce.
5. Western pine in Figure 1 is western yellow pine.
6. Western larch and eastern tamarack are combined.
7. Cedar includes the eastern cedars (red, northern and southern white), western red, Port Orford, incense and yellow cedars.
8. White fir includes also grand, noble, red, and alpine fir.
9. Oak includes white, red, western, and Japanese oak.
10. Maple includes hard, soft, and Oregon maple.
